Solutions for Your Life Template and Training Update - The Solutions for Your Life website is growing in leaps and bounds! Analysis of its usage reveals that the site is logging more than 10,000 visits each week. The Web Team continues to distribute templates and training to many county offices as well as other offices within IFAS. Training is provided using the new templates in both Dreamweaver and FrontPage, with additional training to come using Contribute. The following tasks have been completed or are in the process of being completed:

- Over the past six weeks, several departments and counties within each district have received templates and training in one-on-one sessions.
- New content, especially in the "Hot Topics" area of SFYL is updated almost every day.
- Over the next two months, template training is scheduled in every Extension District to be offered concurrently with the UNIFAS trainings. Additional training will also be offered on writing for the Web, and other topics of interest.
- Extension Districts are assigning two individuals in each county to oversee their respective webpages a content specialist and a web specialist. They are also providing requests for Contribute software.
- The Web Oversight Committee met to discuss the process for distribution of templates, training and the choosing of a Content Management System. A timeline is in progress to accomplish this.

Bar the Door Katy - Florida residents have many questions about how to reinforce their homes against hurricane damage. Window protection is a critical part of home reinforcement. A PowerPoint to help evaluate hurricane window shutter options was developed by the Hillsborough County Extension. The PowerPoint discusses shutter ratings and advantages & disadvantages of the various options, and it links to fact sheets & websites that have additional information. The PowerPoint has been downloaded over 600 times, it was used in an Extension hurricane home inspector training, and State Farm Insurance plans to use pictures from the PowerPoint in a training brochure for their inspectors. Expertise and guidance for this effort was provided by St. Lucie County Extension; Florida House Learning Center; Florida Energy Extension; and Escambia County Extension. [Contact Lisa Leslie]

The Way to the Mind is Through The Stomach - Lunch and Learn Programs for County Employees - Clerk of Circuit Court's staff wanted educational programs presented during their lunch hours. They contacted Extension FCS for ideas and were given a list of 52 topics. Their top 6 requests were: Living Wills and Funeral Planning; Stress Management; Money Management; Family Records and Valuable Papers; Disaster Preparedness; and Food and Fitness. Management was willing to stagger lunches so that more could attend. The monthly series began in September 2006 and will run through March 2007. IMPACT: Agent received NEAFCS Award and the Mary Harrison professorship basically for presenting 2-hour employee development workshops. Targeting 100 employees per topic; 6 topics presented 4 times; a company would normally pay at least $100 per person to outside agency for training, so cost savings to the county is approximately $60,000. 4-H "Interested Parents" Efforts Spawn 10 New Clubs_- In the fall of 2004, a Pinellas County 4-H agent started the program "Interested Parents." Parents of 4-H members were sent informational emails normally only sent to 4-H volunteers. These parents were also invited to attend 4-H leaders training workshops. One objective of this program was to educate parents on the responsibilities of 4-H club leaders and to understand more about the opportunities of the Pinellas County 4-H program. As a result of the "Interested Parents" program, enough parents have signed on to begin ten new 4-H clubs this fall. These new clubs will cover the horse, sports fishing, robotics, and clothing construction projects areas, among others. [Contact: Jean Rogalsky]
